General Insurance Industry Awards Win!

Broking Office of the Year 2009 – Rothbury Ashburton

Kelvin Holmes, Branch Manager and his team at the Rothbury Ashburton office won "Broking Office of the Year 2009" at the General Insurance Industry Awards held at the Sky City Convention Centre on November 5th.

The award recognises and celebrates the highest achievements of professionals and organisations in the industry and was judged by a panel of insurance industry leaders and professionals from other disciplines.

Rothbury Ashburton were quoted as "attributing their win to their core strength – their varied team. Together they provide a good balance and compliment each other."

Kelvin and the team are well known for their focus and drive to get the job done for the client. The branch has often led the way in terms of The Pulse score and seeing clients face to face is just the way it's done.

The first priority for the Ashburton team is to their clients. With a strong focus on attention to detail and consistent business practices. They attempt to never lose sight of their commitment to their client base and they consider this the driving force behind their business, rather than financial targets and money.

Kelvin said "Our success as a Broking business is quite simply based around how we view service and being absolutely committed to maintaining the best possible client relationship."

Broker of the Year 2009 Nominee Peter McAuliffe

Peter McAuliffe, Branch Manager Otago was nominated for "Broker of the Year" also at the industry awards. Peter was placed in the Top 3 finalists. It is great to see some recognition for the hard work that is put in day after day and while Peter did not walk away with the win it is still a fantastic achievement to even be nominated - well done Peter!
